

Reduce Stress - Enjoy Life More

by Coach Linda Goldfarb

Too often we're frantic to speed things up, determined to cram big things into small spaces, and forever trying to be everything to everyone, only to realize it's an impossible task, leaving us frustrated, overwhelmed, and stressed out.

I'm reminded in Isaiah 58:11, "The Lord will guide you always... You will be like a well-watered garden, like a spring whose waters never fail."

We are to lean on God in all things, as He will provide all of our needs. So instead of looking at the rest of this year as being full of "stress opportunities," I wanted to share these "stress reducers" to help you get in front of the triggers that can lead to the frustration, and overwhelm in life.

Print this post, cut out the tips in strips and place them on your refrigerator or bathroom mirror as a reminder of choices you can make every day, choices that will lead to a healthier you in the future.

Blessings,

Coach Linda

14 Ways to Decrease Stress

1. Pray often, multiple times a day. I've found, if we limit our relationship with God to a once or twice a day experience we miss out on a continual flow of His Grace and blessing.

Prayer is communication with God, a way to develop a relationship. If we only speak to Him once a day, how can we truly know Him?

2. Make your daily resting-goal a minimum of seven hours of uninterrupted sleep. We don't need studies to prove lack of sleep results in a less than desired effect on our health, work, and relational habits. We must be refreshed to be refreshment to others.
3. Lay out clothing the night before is an excellent habit to teach your children. Match outfits ahead of time, even down to the jewelry you will wear with it ladies, and hang them all together. (This is a great tip from my friend and image specialist, Jill Swanson).

Guys, you can do the same with ties, socks, and shoes—never assume it's only the girls spending time in front of the closet.

4. Say no more often. Burning the candle at both ends has become an acceptable pastime for all "Good Christians." But living a multiple-wick life leads to early burn out. Getting our priorities straight—God, family, job, and other—will help in choosing which wicks to light.

Just in case you're asking, spending time at church every moment the doors are open does not fall under the "God" slot; it may be under your "job" slot if you're a pastor or church secretary, but if not, it's "other."

5. Delegation makes others stronger. Sure, you can choose to make yourself solely responsible for every detail of life in your house, or you can delegate tasks to capable others; your strength is seen in your weakest link.

Teach the kids to set and clear the table, fold laundry, water the garden—any chore appropriate for their age and ability. Most important, don't stress out if they don't do it exactly your way.

6. Simplify and downsize your life, office, and closets. Keep, store, or give away—repeat every six months.

7. Stop using credit cards. It's easy to whip out a credit or debit card for all those little purchases in life, but the statements at the end of the month can be major stressors. Instead, designate a cash amount for your weekly quick-spends (maybe $30) and leave the credit/debit cards at home.
8. Plan for a rainy day. Here are some indoor ideas: crossword puzzles, board games, favorite family movies. Plans change, but if we plan ahead for those unexpected changes, we can redirect hurt feelings or bouts of disappointment.
9. Oops Items. Carry an extra car key in your wallet or purse, hide an extra house key, keep extra stamps in the car, and make a photo copy of the credit cards you carry.

Ask the family for ideas. What do we always seem not to have at the time we need it? What would we hate to lose? Making the list can be fun. Place it near the door to reduce stress-filled moments.

10. Do something just for fun at least once a week. Movies, fishing, time with friends or the grandkids, garage sales, date night, the zoo, painting furniture -- whatever works.
11. Incorporate at least 30 minutes of accumulated physical activity a day*. Stress can't thrive in an active body. I don't have scientific proof, unless you count my 102-year-old mother-in-law: Cancer survivor, avid gardener (used a powerless push-mower for more than 50 years), walked one to two miles a day, and played one mean piano for church, for her apartment complex, and for family.
12. Journal your thoughts. Use a journal to reflect, share, and recognize the positives God is doing daily in your life. Stress can consume our thoughts with what if's and why not's. If we make a conscious effort to pen the positives, we can lose the grip of daily stress.
13. Laugh out loud! Four great ways to incorporate humor into your day: Play with a puppy; run with your child; sit down in front of shows that tickle your funny bone or record some at home karaoke and play it back for friends.
14. Talk less - listen more. We have two ears, one mouth – there's a reason.

Allowing these simple changes to incorporate positive choices in your life will open doors of opportunity for you to shine as a child of the King.

This is a year of change – let's embrace it!
